Employee Health

Knowing the health of employees is very important in helping keep food safe from disease-causing microbes. There are certain symptoms and diagnosis that need to be reported to either the Person in Charge or health authorities.

Restriction
- Is limiting the activities of a food employee to avoid transmitting a disease to someone else through food, clean utensils, linens, or equipment.
- Employee may handle and load dirty dishes, throw out the trash, clean tables, work the cash register, unload boxes, etc...
- Cannot handle food or any clean food contact surfaces.
  - Example: Single service items

Exclusion
- The person involved is not allowed to enter the establishment as an employee (to work) until requirements for return are met.